Catalonia: what is going on?

VIS-A-VIS: 10 years of history and a referendum, explained in 155 pictures distributed over six sites.

155: the number of the article of the Spanish Constitution used by the Spanish government to dismiss the Catalan government, close the Parliament, jail the politicians and the social leaders, and finally generalize repression.

155: the number of pictures composing this exhibition organised over six sites, and telling the main episodes of this story.

CHRONOLOGY :

Three relevant facts occurred before 2010:

1. The Catalan Parliament redacted, debated and approved the new autonomy status with a 78% majority. The text was sent to the Spanish Parliament which bowdlerised it. Finally, an agreement could be formalized and announced.

2. The Catalan citizens adopted this amended text by referendum. The Yes won a wide victory

3. The PP and other entities appealed to Spain's Constitutional Court (a politicized court carefully purged of any progressist element). After years of deliberations, the court finally bowdlerised the text again so as to make nonsense of it. This status had been however voted by two parliaments and adopted by referendum

These three facts explain the triggering of the events depicted by these pictures
